Is There A Bigger Key In Texas?

Appomattox mayor Henry B. Pack (left asked Governor Bill Daniel, of Liberty, Texas (standing next) whether there's a bigger key in Texas than the "Key to Appomattox" presented to Gov. and Mrs. Daniel at the Parkway Friday. Roy A. Moon (right), president of the Chamber of Commerce, also presented the Daniels with a gift from the Country Store at the National Historical Park. Gov. Daniel, ranch owner and former Governor of the Territory of Guam during the Kennedy administration, was also an advisor to the Johnson administration. The Daniels were here Thursday and Friday to collect family records of the Price, White and Williamson families of the Rough Creek section of Charlotte County. Gov. Daniel has reconstructed a frontier village at his ranch which dates back to 1818, and he expressed great interest in the history of Virginia and the people from which his family descended. Another special interest is crippled children and the Daniels each year are hosts to thousands (6,127 last year in June) at their Plantation Ranch. Movie fans can see Gov. Bill in "The Alamo" playing the part of "Colonel Neil."

Four Fires On Same Day

Chief Fire Warden David M. Smith has reported four separate fires fought by Pamplin and Appomattox fire fighters on Wednesday, April 22. The first was a 15 acre fire on Rt. 633, the William Burruss property with 14 acres of open fields and one acre of woodland destroyed.

A spotter plane patrolled the area and a bulldozer was used to plow a fire line. Appomattox Fire Dept. volunteers, local forest wardens and others helped.

Within an hour or two three other fires broke out, two on the Piney Ridge road. One on Mary Baldwin's property burned less than an acre of broom sage, thanks to prompt action by the Pamplin Fire Dept. and other volunteers. The other burned on Horace Coleman's property (the Hipps Place), below Piney Ridge Church. R. S. Burrus Lumber Co. workers and local forest wardens helped with this fire and the one on Rt. 633.

The fourth fire was at Dr. J. A. Mathew's farm just over the Charlotte County line. Deputy sheriff Reynolds reported this fire and helped to fight it until the Pamplin Fire Dept. arrived.

Appomattox Hosts Planning Meeting

Tobacco growers from Appomattox, Charlotte, Campbell, Amherst and Buckingham counties met here Wednesday evening, April 22. Roy B. Davis, Jr., Marketing Agent, Dept. of Agriculture was the first speaker following introductions by J. A. Smith, extension agent, agriculture.

The meeting included a five-year survey of leaf production. Appomattox County shows only a 2% change in gross income to the county through changes in acreage harvested between 1965 and 1969.

Other speakers besides Davis were J. L. Tramel, tobacco specialist, VPI; J. A. Nolen, extension agent, farm management; T. B. Hall, manager, Dark-Fired Tobacco Cooperative.

J. A. Nolen told the audience that a record high average price was paid for Va. dark-fired tobacco during the 1969-70 marketing season. Producer sales averaged $53.08 per hundred pounds - $6.16 per hundred lbs. or 13% above the previous record set during the 1968-69 season.

A review of Appomattox county statistics reveal "ups and downs" in the tobacco situation. Allotted acreage harvested in Appomattox since 1965 is down 37%, but the average yield per acre is up 17%. Gross income per acre is up 56% with gross income to the county as a whole down 2%.

In 1965---994 acres of dark leaf were harvested; 1967, 654; and 1968, 624 acres. Average yield per acre in 1965 was 1,272 pounds; in 1969, 1,483. Value per acre has jumped from $506 in 1965 to $786 in 1969.

The yield per acre in Appomattox, (1,483 lbs.) is one of the highest in the tobacco belt.

Mayor Plants Crepe Myrtle At Bank Opening!

The weather Saturday was warm and mild, and Fidelity Bank's Hillcrest Branch Bank, Appomattox, held open house to mark the completion of the new $132,000 building. Mayor H. B. Pack, Jr., (far right) proved that a ceremonial planting can be the "real thing." He personally dug the hole near the parking lot, dropped in the crepe myrtle, then left instructions with Hillcrest manager, Floyd Williams (left) and F. L. Eggleston (center), manager of the downtown Fidelity, Appomattox, on the best way to keep crepe myrtle healthy and blooming through all the years to come. Prizes and refreshments awaited the many visitors who came between one p.m. and six p.m. Musical entertainment was offered by the Beta Club singers of Appomattox County High School who sang patriotic and folk music with guitar accompaniment.
